

Competitors Stand-In

A competitors stand-in is any person designated by the competitor to act as their agent to represent them until they are able to arrive at the assigned location. A competitor may have as many stand-ins as needed.

If a competitor is not able to personally be at the designated location when called, their assigned competitor stand-in will go to the designated sign-up area and inform the Division Sign-Up personnel which competitor they are standing in for and the status of the competitor.

During division sign-up, the competitor stand-in will get in line with the other competitors for that division and follow any instructions given by the Division Sign-Up personnel.

After the division sign-up has been completed, the “Division Sign-Up Personnel will take the division to their ring. If the competitor has not yet arrived, the competitor’ stand-in will go out into the competition area with the rest of the division.

If the competitor has still not arrived when the competitor they are standing in for is called to compete, the stand-in will inform the Judges of the competitors current status.

If at any time during this process, the competitor arrives for their duties, the Competitor Stand-In will immediately inform the competitor of what has occurred in their behalf. The Competitor Stand-In after informing the competitor will then leave the competitors area and take their seat.
